INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGIES

The investment objective of the CI Conservative Asset Allocation ETF (the Fund) is to provide income with a potential for modest capital appreciation by investing in Exchange-Traded Funds (ETFs) that provide exposure to a portfolio of global fixed income and equity securities.

To achieve its investment objective, the Fund invests in a portfolio of global fixed-income and equity securities. The Portfolio Manager seeks to maintain a long-term strategic asset allocation of approximately 80% fixed income securities and 20% equity securities (under normal market conditions). The portfolio asset mix may be reconstituted and rebalanced from time to time at the discretion of the Portfolio Manager.

For a complete discussion of the Fund's investment objective and strategies, please refer to the Fund's most recently filed simplified prospectus.

RISK

The risks of the Fund remain as discussed in the Fund's most recently filed simplified prospectus. The Manager reviews the risk rating for the Fund on an annual basis, at a minimum, based on the methodology mandated by the Canadian Securities Administrators to determine the risk level of the Fund.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

As at June 30, 2023 the Fund's net asset value were $1.0 million. The Fund had net sales of $1.0 million for the period.

Market expectations changed dramatically throughout the period. When the period began, the U.S. Federal Reserve Board (Fed) appeared to be close to finishing hiking interest rates, with interest rate cuts expected to come as soon as late 2023. Similarly, the pause in hiking interest rates by the Bank of Canada (BoC) was interpreted by the markets as a finish to its interest rate increases. Those expectations were reversed when the BoC raised interest rates on June 7, 2023 and the Fed signalled it was also not finished raising interest rates. Bond prices were volatile and finished the first half of 2023 with performance driven mainly by coupon rates.

Despite challenges for U.S. regional banks in March 2023, stocks continued to rebound, led by those in the information technology sector, which had a boost from investor enthusiasm around artificial intelligence (AI). Commodities were generally weaker as Chinese economic activities following reopening from COVID-19 pandemic lockdowns were less robust than expected. Many market commentators were predicting recession in the United States because of tight monetary policies, but U.S. job data continued to be surprisingly strong.

An underweight exposure to international equities contributed to the Fund's performance. Top individual contributors to the Fund's performance included holdings in CI U.S. 1000 Index ETF and iShares Core MSCI Emerging Markets ETF.

The Fund's overweight allocation to fixed income detracted from performance. The largest individual detractors from the Fund's performance were positions in iShares Core Canadian Universe Bond Index ETF, Vanguard Global Aggregate Bond Index ETF, iShares Core MSCI EAFE ETF and CI Canadian Equity Index ETF.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

Central bank and government policies are expected to dominate in the latter half of 2023. We should find out the direction the Fed will take with interest rates, as well as what stimulus strategies the Chinese government will implement to boost the Chinese economy for a 5% annual growth target. In addition, we should discover if the Bank of Japan (BOJ) will end "yield curve control" as inflation may become an issue in Japan. We anticipate higher U.S. interest rates for longer and no cuts in interest rates from the Fed until at least second half of 2024.

In China, youth unemployment is at a historic high and consumer confidence is low. Driven by tension with the United States, it has been harder for China to generate growth from foreign investment. We anticipate some incentives to boost domestic spending. In Japan, there are signs that prices are rising due to commodities and wage pressure, but there has been no rush to change the BOJ's monetary policy. In our view, Japanese companies generally have low debt and high cash balances, and as such, higher interest rates should not dramatically change their profitability.

Aside from policies, the world is advancing due to innovation. In our view, there is no reason not to believe AI will greatly enhance enterprise productivity. While ChatGPT is not perfect today, it should improve over time. We believe high-speed computing (which enables AI) is the next important trend, and the opportunity ahead could be enormous. The Fund currently holds an overweight allocation to the semiconductor industry, which supplies the “brains” for AI.

Based on this outlook, the Fund holds an underweight allocation to U.S. equities, an overweight allocation to China, along with other emerging market countries, and overweight exposures to Japanese equities and the Japanese yen. Given that cash generates a higher yield than long-dated bonds, we are comfortable holding extra cash in the Fund, which gives us flexibility to add equities or bonds to the Fund.

(1) This information is derived from the Fund's semi-annual financial statements.

(2) Management expense ratio is calculated based on expenses charged to the Fund (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net assets for the period/year, including the Fund's proportionate share of any underlying fund(s) expenses, if applicable. The Effective HST tax rate is calculated using the attribution percentage for each province based on unitholder residency and can be different from 13%.

(3) The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net assets during the period/year, including the Fund's proportionate share of such expenses of any underlying fund(s), if applicable.

(4) The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio advisor manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the fiscal period/year. The higher a Fund's portfolio turnover rate in a period/year, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the period/year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the period/year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a higher turnover rate and the performance of a Fund. Portfolio turnover rate is calculated by dividing the lesser of the cost of purchases and the proceeds of sales of portfolio securities for the period/year, and excluding cash and short-term investments maturing in less than one year, and before assets acquired from a merger, if applicable, by the average of the monthly fair value of investments during the period/year.

(5) This information is provided for the period ended June 30, 2023.

(6) Closing market price.
