

TAX HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE 2019 PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND BUDGET

Finance Minister Darlene Compton tabled the 2019 Prince Edward Island provincial budget on June 25, 2019. The budget projects a modest surplus of $1.8 million for the 2019-2020 fiscal year. At the same time, net debt to GDP continues to decline with a projected ratio of 30.7% for 2019-2020, decreasing to 29.1% in 2021-2022.

On the income tax side, there were no changes to personal income tax rates. The budget did, however, propose a change to the small business tax rate, effective January 1, 2020. Also included in the budget was a change to the low-income tax reduction threshold aimed at lower-income families.

The following pages are a summary of the changes announced in the budget. Please note that these changes are proposals until passed into law by the provincial government.

PERSONAL TAX MATTERS

Personal income tax rates and tax brackets

The 2019 budget leaves personal income tax rates unchanged from 2018. Prince Edward Island does not index its tax brackets to reflect the impact of inflation. The table below shows Prince Edward Island tax rates and brackets for 2019.

Taxable income range	2019 tax rates
First $31,984	9.8%
$31,985 - $63,969	13.8%
$63,970 and over	16.7%

In addition to the tax rates noted in the above table, there is a surtax equal to 10% of provincial tax payable in excess of $12,500.

The table below shows the 2019 combined federal and provincial highest marginal tax rates for various types of income.

Type of income	2019 combined tax rates
Regular income	51.37%
Capital gains	25.69%
Eligible dividends	34.22%
Non-eligible dividends	45.23%

Personal tax credits

As noted above, the Prince Edward Island government does not index personal income tax brackets. In order to provide some inflation protection, the budget proposes to increase the basic personal amount from $9,160 to $10,000, for 2020 and subsequent taxation years. In addition, the spouse amount and equivalent to spouse amount will both be increased by a proportionate amount.

Low-income tax reduction threshold

The low-income tax reduction threshold limits the extent to which families can claim certain credits aimed at lower-income families. Budget 2019 proposes to increase the threshold from $17,000 to $18,000, effective January 1, 2020.
